

A Nevada Nursing Home Lawyer Can Help You

All over America and in the state of Nevada, families from every walk of life are choosing to move their loved ones into elder care nursing homes for advanced care that is too difficult or too costly to be able to give on their own. Nursing homes can be very convenient facilities, offering around the clock care with scheduled activities, entertainment, and emergency care all with the comforts of home.

Some nursing homes however, do not provide these luxuries and may be a danger to the residents within. Sometimes residents are tied down to their beds and not permitted to leave to use the bathroom and are refused food and water for long periods of time. Other times, family members may notice bruises, lesions, swelling and poor circulation that is unexplained by the nursing home staff. In very rare cases, the nursing home residents are fatally injured by neglectful and abusive practices. In such cases, after removing your loved one from the facility, seeking medical treatment, and ensuring their safety, you need to contact Jack Bernstein & Associates, Nevada nursing home abuse lawyers .

So what can you do once you have contacted our Nevada nursing home neglect lawyers? The first thing you need to do is write down everything you have seen and heard to the best of your recollection. If you have any pictures, documentations, and other legally obtained informational pieces of evidence, include those in your initial consultation as well. Leave nothing out because no matter how small the details, your testimony could be imperative to the case whether it is a criminal or civil liability case. Next, write down a series of questions for our Nevada nursing home lawyers that we can use to assist you in winning your case. This step will not only give you a better understanding of your rights and those of your family, but will also give you an idea of the level of expertise our attorneys have in elder law and nursing home abuse. Examples of questions we are asked are: What rights do nursing home residents have? Can a nursing home resident sue the residence by his/herself? What is the difference between neglect and abuse? And, what is the procedure for taking a nursing home facility to court?

Our Nevada nursing home abuse lawyers have a background specifically dealing with elder law and this is important to the success of your case. By choosing our qualified and dependable Nevada nursing home lawyers, we will keep you current on all court paperwork, the status of the pending lawsuit, any actions taken by the defendants, and the types of proofs needed in order to facilitate the claims against the nursing home.

Many of these types of civil liability cases settle out of court for large sums of restitution and can mean very serious prison sentences and heavy fines and in criminal proceedings. Our experienced Nevada nursing home lawyers are available for any questions, concerns, or difficulties and will keep in mind the delicate and sensitive nature of your family's case by conducting themselves with professionalism, confidentiality, and passion for the justice system to work for those who suffer.

Contact the nursing home lawyers in our Nevada office today for prompt attention to your case.